ANTI-WAR UNION ORGANIZED

Body With 10,000 Members is Formed in Germany

REFUSE AID IN ANY MANNER

Pledge Taken Against Production of Fighting Material

PHILADELPHIA — (By Associated Press) — Conscientious objectors to war service in Germany have formed a union with more than 10,000 members, each of whom has signed a pledge that they will neither take up arms, produce war material, give money nor aid in any way in what they characterize as the "organized murder of subjects of other countries or of our own countrymen."

This information comes from Howard H. Brinton, a member of the Society of Friends from West Chester, Pa., who recently attended a public meeting in Berlin held under the auspices of the "German Union of Objectors to War Service."

"I expected to find a dozen or so long-haired persons sitting about a table, and instead found a hall, jammed to the doors with about 800 people, the air tense with suppressed enthusiasm," said Mr. Brinton. One of the speakers said the organization was formed by German war prisoners in England after they were permitted to return to Germany.

A student who was a speaker at the meeting, declared that there was great need in the university for a spiritual awakening, since the old military party was still strong there and demanded revenge on the enemy.

Another speaker said that the Germans who had permitted themselves to be driven into this war had brains that were nothing but soup poured into their heads by others. "Militarism, mammonism, egoism and all that goes with the Wilhelm idea must disappear," he said.

De. Helene Stoecker, of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, said that the education supplied by the German state is not education. "Instead of bringing hidden qualities to the surface, it hammers lies into the brain," she said. "If the 'educated' are taught only how to exploit humanity, it is better that mankind remain as ignorant as the Russian peasant."

LURE OF CLOTHES CAUSES THEFTS

Girls Admit Taking Merchandise From Lima Stores

The fact that she was left an orphan by the death of her mother when she was not quite three years old and the death of her father when she was eleven and had no guiding home influence, is blamed by Gladys Peppie, 18, for her leading a crooked life.

Gladys was arrested with May Kelly, 18, of 1129 S. Central-ave., charged with shop lifting. It is alleged during the past several weeks that they stole goods valued at over $300 from downtown department stores.

When arraigned in criminal court Wednesday both pleaded guilty to the charges and were bound over to the grand jury.

"This is terrible," Gladys declared as she and the other girl told their story.

"I have just been drifting around all my life, trying to live decently and look where I have landed."

"Other girls had pretty clothes, and I craved them. That, I guess, is the reason why I stole all of these pretty things."

Both said they were married but did not know the whereabouts of their husbands.

"My husband left me last October. He treated me badly. I had to work and help buy the groceries and pay the room rent. I have never had a home."

Gladys said. She broke down and sobbed as she continued her story of wrestling with the world.

"I am thru. Never again will I touch an article that doesn't belong to me. They might as well send me up for life, for if they do let me go I will still have to drift around and have no home, nobody to love, no person to care a rap about me."

"I stole these things, and I have told all. When I was stealing them I seemed unconscious of what I was doing."

RESOLVE TO REFORM

"Last Saturday night May and I resolved to quit stealing and straighten up and live straight. We didn't steal any more, and now here we are 'pinched' after that."

TRIAL OF CLEVELAND PERJURY CASES BEGINS

CLEVELAND — The trial of James F. McCaffery, the first person to be indicted for perjury in connection with testimony at the trial of William H. McGonnon, former chief justice of the municipal court, began today before Judge Bernson in criminal court. Judge Bernson presided at the first trial of McGonnon, charged with the murder of Harold C. Kacy, in which the jury disagreed.

County Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton and Attorney W. L. David, his special assistant, are conducting the prosecution.

ROUSH TO GET TRIAL

O. J. Roush, ousted police chief, will have a hearing before the municipal civil service commission in the city council chamber at 9 o'clock Thursday morning. It was announced definitely by the commission Wednesday following an informal conference.

This decision was made in the face of Mayor F. A. Burkhardt's announcement that the state civil service commission had informed him that Roush had no appeal from his 30-day suspension for disciplinary purposes. The opinion was given Mayor Burkhardt and City Solicitor Garling Tuesday while they were in Columbus. The mayor asked the Attorney General for an opinion but was referred to the state civil service commission, he said.

"I think Mayor Burkhardt is guilty of discourtesy to us," said F. W. Durbin, member of the local commission, Wednesday. "Why did he go to the state commission for an opinion before he came to us with his charges on which to base suspension of Roush? The state commission cannot dictate what the local commission shall do."

There is no doubt in the minds of those familiar with the situation that the case will eventually get into common pleas court, for should the commission reinstate Roush the mayor will appeal to common pleas court, and should the commission uphold the mayor, Roush will appeal.

At the request of the mayor thru Councilmen Tarvin and Jones, a council meeting has been called for Wednesday night for consideration of appropriations for law enforcement.

Councilmen say that they do not intend to discuss the matter of the suspension of Roush and will not allow themselves to become involved in the matter.

The usual course in case Roush is found not guilty before the commission is for it to order his reinstatement at once.

Much interest is being shown in the case and it is expected that the council chamber will be packed with interested persons when the trial opens Thursday morning.

GIRL IS SHOT AS CROWD GASPS

Young Woman Enacts Tragedy Amid Thousands in Chicago

THEN TURNS GUN ON SELF

Man Kills Another Following Night of Revelry

CHICAGO — (By United Press) — One girl pulled a revolver out of her hand bag and shot down another girl on a downtown platform of the elevated lines today in full view of thousands of persons hurrying to work.

Catherine Davis, 31, had just left her train and was headed toward the steps leading to Madison-st. A girl, whose only known name is Jeanette, rushed on behind a post, pulled a revolver from her hand bag and fired two shots in the side of Miss Davis.

Miss Davis dropped to the platform in a heap and bled profusely. Spectators, awed by Jeanette, who was swinging her pistol, rushed back toward the elevated tracks.

They heard Jeanette scream "I'm satisfied—I got her."

Jeanette then rushed toward the stairs.

More shots added to the panic and Jeanette dropped. She had fired two shots into her own body.

Train guards rushed from their posts of duty.

Police men jumped from elevated trains that stopped and others clambered up the stairs from patrol and traffic duty.

Both girls were rushed to a hospital. They will die, attendants said.

MAN IS SLAIN

CHICAGO — (By United Press) — A night of revelry preceding the funeral of their father, Charles D. Bingham, caused the death early today of one of three brothers who died after being hit by a taxi driver, according to Detective Sergeant Hughes.

Three brothers, John, Charles and Harry Bingham, an official of the Chicago Iron Company, Detroit, fought in a taxi, breaking a window, police said.

The driver, Edward Siegel, drove up in front of a police station. At this point, police said, John Bingham started fighting with Siegel who hit Bingham in the jaw, killing him.

Siegel is being held for investigation.

The elder Bingham's funeral will be held today.

GIRL DECIDES NOT TO COMMIT SUICIDE AFTER LEAVING DEATH NOTES

CINCINNATI — "No, I'm not going to commit suicide. That's all over. I'm going back to London, Kentucky, to the bedside of my brother, who I have just been informed, is dying."

Minta Ward, pretty 17-year-old Kentucky girl, who left five suicide notes in a room at 122 East Ninth-st. and then disappeared Tuesday, made this statement at a hotel here this morning, just before she boarded a train for her home, accompanied by her sister and other-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Zeller of Jackson, Ohio. It developed that the girl was married some time ago to Robert Bowling, a welder, and lives in Hamilton, Ohio. She left there last Saturday. Yesterday afternoon, a man noticed her distressed appearance on the street and offered to aid her. After he heard her story, he telephoned to Jackson, Ohio, for her sister.

The decrease is a quarterly reduction of one half per cent. This is the first time in 22 years the Pennsylvania has reduced the annual dividend below six per cent. 10,000 EMPLOYEES BUY STOCK

Akron Concern Also Makes Big Production Increase

AKRON — (By Associated Press) — Substantial indication of returning prosperity and improved conditions for the world's rubber manufacturing center was contained in the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company's announcement today that every one of its approximately 10,000 employees had become stockholders, voluntarily oversubscribing a special offer of stock by 50 per cent within 12 years. They are now nearly 45,000 shares of the company's common stock held by employees.

Coincident with the stockholding announcement came the information that the Firestone company was making plans to increase its production to 30,000 tires a day in May. The Firestone factories have taken on more than 2,000 men in the last few weeks and since March have increased their production 50 per cent, reaching an output of 15,000 tires a day during the past month.

Anti-Trust Law Revision Among Matters Taken Up

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — (By Associated Press) — Revision of the tariff laws, foreign trade, the nation's immigrant and housing problems and remedial measures for the industrial situation were subjects of discussion today as the opening of the ninth annual convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce. More than 4,000 delegates were in attendance.

Among resolutions to be placed before the assembly was one from the National Aircraft Underwriters' Association asking the chamber to urge congress to prepare and enact legislation embodying an aerial code and providing the necessary machinery for its enforcement.

ANTI-TRUST LAWS

The Kansas City chamber's board of directors recommended that revision of the anti-trust laws be urged in congress.

The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce suggested that congress be asked to create a federal highway commission to lay out and direct construction and maintenance of an interstate highway system.

Resolutions calling upon congress to take steps for advancement of foreign trade and the American Merchant Marine and development of American ports were introduced by the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce.

SALES TAX URGED

Repeal of all excise taxes and substitution of an equitable sales tax was urged by the National Jewelers' Board of Trade. The Chicago Association of Commerce suggested a court of tax appeals to be provided for by congress and appointed by the president.

The convention proper was urged by various speakers to take up the country's housing problem and attempt a solution. President Deffres said that the country is 1,250,000 dwellings short of its pre-war ratio and that the situation had become one of the most critical of our domestic problems.

MAYOR DOES NOT TESTIFY IN LIGHT RATE HEARING

Altho he went down to Columbus with an armload of evidence Mayor F. A. Burkhardt did not get to testify before the state utilities commission in the matter of fixing valuation of the Ohio Electric's gas and power property, Tuesday.

"I could not qualify as an expert," said the Mayor Wednesday. "I was prepared to show them that all of the Ohio Electric property in Lima is on the tax duplicate at $841,120. Light and power rates for Lima will be based on the valuation of the company's property decided upon by the commission after hearing the evidence submitted Tuesday."

PLOT CHARGED BY MRS. STOKES

Woman in Court Not Madame Estelle, She Says

NEW YORK — (By United Press) — Introduction of a woman in the role of a milliner known as "Made Estelle" was charged by Mrs. W. D. Stokes from the witness stand today as "a part of the frameup" against her in her husband's suit for divorce.

In her testimony yesterday, Mrs. Stokes had told of a "Madame Estelle" who had a millinery establishment in her husband's hotel, the Ansonia, and whom she said, Stokes boasted was "his mistress."

At the start of cross-examination her fourth day on the stand— counsel for Stokes asked her if she would recognize "Madame Estelle."

"Certainly," she replied.

At this juncture, a short dark woman came from the back of the room and took a seat behind Stokes.

"Is this the woman?" the witness was asked.

"No," she replied.

"Don't you know that this is Mrs. Rosenberg, known as 'Madame Estelle,' who had a millinery shop in the Ansonia hotel for years?"

"You are just trying to induce me to make a false identification. It is just a part of the frameup against me."

Mrs. Stokes was questioned about her diary for 1911, the year she was married. She was asked why she had so few entries.

"A woman usually puts in her diary the pleasant things she wishes to remember," she replied.

"There were few entries because I never had a happy day with Mr. Stokes after I married him."

France Rejects New Reparations Offer and Determines on Immediate Seizure of the Rhur Valley, While Great Britain and Italy Object to Drastic Step.

London and Rome Favor Consideration of Berlin's Proposals—United States May Ask Paris to Halt in Her Speedy Military Plans.

(By United Press)

Germany's newest representations offered today threatened the amity of the allies.

While French officials immediately branded the proposals as unacceptable, Great Britain proceeded to ask Berlin for a clarification of vague clauses, leading to a belief that she will consider further. Negotiations were determined to proceed with seizure of the Ruhr valley and the infliction of the harshest penalties on Germany "for failure to meet the terms of the peace treaty."

Italy opposes the French plans. Great Britain has shown a willingness to support the French in case Germany does not make an acceptable offer. Britain's attitude today, however, indicated a belief that the latest offer is worth consideration.

The United States may ask France to hold back her military plans until Germany has been given an opportunity to show how sincere she is in her offer to pay the war debt. France thus stood practically alone in opposing consideration of the German offer. She will have the opportunity this week to proceed alone against Germany or yield to the view of the allies. The opportunity will be given her at the meeting of the Allied Supreme Council, which is having prepared a digest of the new offer.

WASHINGTON — (By United Press) — The United States may ask France to delay her proposed occupation of the Ruhr valley.

This step, it was learned, is in contemplation in event Italy and Great Britain decline to support France in its flat rejection of the latest German reparations proposals. Should Italy and Great Britain signify to the state department that they want a chance to discuss the new German offer, France will probably be requested to hold her troops back until after an effort has been made to reach agreement.

The situation produced by the German note was regarded as dangerous to the good feeling among the allies. Despite the French desire not to compromise the original demands in any way, officials were noticeably worried today as to the possible course of Britain and Italy.

They were also concerned as to what America will do.

Italy does not approve a direct military measure proposed by the French, and Great Britain is not enthusiastic over them.

BRITISH ATTITUDE

LONDON — (By United Press) — The British foreign office Wednesday asked Berlin to clarify some clauses in her latest reparations offer.

The note indicated that if acceptable explanations of the vague clauses are received, the new proposals will not be rejected outright but will be taken before the Supreme Council this week for careful consideration.

A foreign office official told the United Press that the "offer brings a settlement much nearer. It provides a basis for discussion but naturally the proposals must be altered before they can be accepted by the allies."

The foreign office regarded the note as clumsily prepared. It asked particularly that Berlin explain fully its plan for funding the debts. It also desired a clear explanation of the German demand that the allies abandon the penalties and guarantees which have been exacted.

BERLIN — Foreign Minister Von Simons has offered his resignation because of attacks on him in connection with the new German reparations offer. It was learned today from a most reliable source.

At this hour (noon) the offer had not been accepted.

18 DIE IN STORM

Mississippi Village is Wiped Out By Tornado

HATTIESBURG, Miss. — (By Associated Press) — The little lumber farming community of Braxton was virtually swept out of existence by a tornado yesterday, a heap of smoking ruins and hardly a standing structure marking the town site today. The storm struck with just one great roar, and the twisting winds hurled the little town almost into ruins among which lay the bodies of possibly 18 dead and more than a score of injured.

Entirely cut off from the world by telephone and telegraph communications, survivors struggled to the town of D'Lo, where they gave first word of the disaster. Railroad officials there spread the news and rescue and aid was rushed forward with state troops sent to take charge.

A train loaded with tents, nurses, soldiers and doctors left Jackson for the scene of the disaster last night. In the meantime practically all of those more seriously hurt had been taken to the hospital at D'Lo, where every possible attention was given them.

Among the known dead were R. F. Everett, president of the Bank of Braxton, and Dr. J. N. Chandler, physician.

THE KILLER--NEW NEWS NOVEL

By STEWART EDWARD WHITE

This is the first installment of the new novel for News readers. It will run for a week. It is one of the best Western stories ever written. Be sure to start today. You cannot afford to miss a word of this gripping serial.

CHARACTERS IN THE STORY

SANBORN, young cowboy.
HOOPER, the "killer."
RAMON AND ANDREAS, Hooper's Mexican "right and left hand."
MISS EMORY, daughter and heiress of Hooper's late partner.
ARTIE BROWER, ex-jockey for Hooper.
TIM WESTMORE, groom for Hooper.
BUCK JOHNSON, owner of Box Springs ranch.
JED PARKER, WINDY BILL and CURLEY, employees of Johnson.
TOM THORNE, sheriff.

I WANT to state right at the start that I am writing this story twenty years after it happened solely because my wife and Senor Buck Johnson insist on it. I was a kid and didn't know any better than to do such things. They dared me to go up to Hooper's ranch and stay all night.

But I hadn't racked along more than two miles before a man cantered up, one of our outfit known as Windy Bill. Nuff said—"Hear you're goin' up to stay the night at Hooper's," said he. "Know Hooper?"

"No," said I.

"Know about Hooper's boomerang?"

"Boomerang?" I replied.

"You know how of course we all let each other's straws water at our troughs in this country, and send 'em back to their own ranch at round up. Well, old Hooper built him a chute leading to the water corral, and when any cattle but those of his own brand came along, he had a man swing a gate and they landed up into a dry corral. By and by he let them out on the range again."

"Without water?"

"Till they died, or we came along and drove them back home. I've seen little calves lyin' in heaps against the fence like drifts of tumbleweed. I do'no why he ain't been shot, but he ain't. And if I was you, I'd stick home."

Windy did not persuade me and I rode on. Hooper's ranch proved to be inclosed by a wall of adobe ten feet high and whitewashed. A wide, high gateway, the only entrance, let into a stable yard. Not a living creature was in sight. I was missing the swarms of blackbirds, linnets, purple finches, and doves that made our own ranch trees vocal. Here were no birds. I entered the courtyard.

A stable occupied all one side; the other three were formed by bunk houses and necessary outbuildings.

I became aware of the figure of a man seated on the ground, in the shadow, leaning against the building. I ranged my eye along the row of houses, and I saw three other figures I had missed before, all watching me.

I dismounted, dropped my horse's reins over his head, and sauntered to the nearest figure.

"Where will I find Mr. Hooper?" I asked.

The figure waved a long, slim hand toward a wicket gate. I pushed open the gate and so found myself in a smaller intimate courtyard. Its center was green grass and about its border grew tall, bright flowers. A wide veranda ran about three sides. In the numerous windows hung white lace curtains. In Arizona of the nineties!

The nearest door opened and I stood face to face with Old Man Hooper himself.

He proved to be not taller than my own shoulder, with a bent little figure dressed in snuff brown. His hair stood up like a short-bristled white brush. His rather small face was brown and lined. His eyes were his predominant, his formidable, his compelling characteristic. They were round, the pupils very small, the irises large and of a light flecked blue. From the pupils radiated fine lines.

"Mr. Hooper," said I, "can you keep me over night?"

"Where are you from?" he asked at length. His voice was soft and low, rather purring.

I mentioned our headquarters on the Gila.

"Come in," he said, "raptly, and stood aside."

I stepped into the dimness of the hallway, and immediately after into a room beyond.

The interior into which I now stepped, with my clanking spurs, my rattling chaps, the dust of my sweat-stained garments, was a low-ceilinged, dim abode with faint, musty aromas. Carpets covered the floors, an old-fashioned hatrack flanked the door on one side, a tall clock on the other. The room beyond contained easy chairs, an upright piano, marble fireplace with a mantel, in a corner a triangular what-not filled with objects. The little old man moved without a sound.

"I shall be very glad to offer you hospitality for the night," he said, as tho there had been no interim. "I feel honored at the opportunity."

"Your horse, sir, has been attended to, and your cantinas are undoubtedly by now in your room, where, I am sure, you are anxious to repair."

At his last words a grave, elderly Mexican appeared noiselessly at my elbow. Hooper instantly arose.

"I trust, sir, you will find all to your liking. We shall dine in a half hour—"

He seized a small implement consisting of a bit of wire screen attached to the end of a short stick, darted across the room with the

SHOOTSELF AT CHURCH ALTAR

Jilted Young Man Attempts Suicide at Columbus

COLUMBUS — (By Associated Press) — Kneeling at the altar in the chapel of Trinity Episcopal church here today, Walter S. Schmidt, aged 26, shot himself above the heart in an attempt at suicide.

He was rushed to a hospital where he was said to be in a dying condition.

Beside the altar, lay a prayer book, opened at the 24th psalm, and beside it, the smoking revolver Schmidt tried to kill himself with.

The bullet, fired from a .32 caliber automatic revolver, passed entirely thru his body, piercing his left lung.

Recent differences with his sweetheart, and the refusal of her father to permit him to further see her was said to be the immediate cause for his act.

Schmidt served with the fifteenth cavalry overseas. He was a student at an art school here.

PRESIDENT HARDING TO REVIEW ATLANTIC FLEET

WASHINGTON. — Acting for the first time as commander-in-chief of the navy, President Harding left for Hampton Roads to review the Atlantic fleet as it returns from the Guantanamo maneuvers tomorrow.

The world-wide agitation for disarmament and the present fight over naval building appropriations in congress, gave the president's trip greater significance than that attached to mere spectacular ceremony.

What Harding sees of the fleet and hears from its officers, may influence the naval policy of his administration. He may address officers of the fleet. If he does his words will be scanned both at home and abroad for a possible indication of his naval policy.

RAIL RATES HOLD

Freight Charges Declared Lawful by Commission

WASHINGTON — (By Associated Press) — Freight rates from points of origin east of the Rocky Mountains to the intermountain territory were found by the interstate commerce commission to be not unreasonable unduly prejudicial or otherwise unlawful. Complaints by shippers and others were dismissed.

The complaint was made against the maintenance of approximately the same rates between eastern points and intermountain territory as between the east and the Pacific coast, the complainants seeking to have rates to the mountain points graded according to distance with the rates to the coast as a working basis.

WASHINGTON — (By Associated Press) — Lieutenant General Saito, commander-in-chief of the eleventh Japanese division at Vladivostok, committed suicide on Monday, his death being a sequel to the shooting of naval Lieutenant W. H. Langdon in that city early in January, says the Kiochi Shinbun of this city. General Saito is said to have either held himself responsible for the death of Lieutenant Langdon, or to have been irritated by what he believed was the weakness of the Japanese government in dealing with the incident.

Lieutenant Langdon was shot and killed by Toshigoro Ogasawara, a country, who was later tried before a court-martial and was found not guilty. He was however sentenced to one month's imprisonment for making false statements, and his duties.

C. C. APPROVES OF STOCK SALE

Will Urge Citizens to Back New Hotel Enterprise

That the Co-operative Building Co., owners and builders of the new Argonne Hotel will offer soon a block of the misplaced stock of the company was announced and taken up at the weekly meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce, at the Lima Club, Wednesday.

Fred E. Woods, general manager of the company, T. J. Harris, secretary-treasurer and F. E. Harman appeared before the directors and explained the project.

The directors went on record as approving of the purchase of the stock by members of the chamber of commerce and citizens of Lima as a "100 per cent Lima proposition." A committee was appointed to draw up resolutions to that effect.

Directors say that the new hotel is necessary and of vital interest to the city and that citizens should aid in every way in getting it in operation. Hotels, they say, are a great asset to a city, as street cars and telephones.

BABY CHICKS, ONE DAY OLD, MAKE 2,000-MILE TRIP BY PARCEL POST

Twenty-five one-day old chicks made a 2,000-mile trip from Lima to Spokane, Wash., via parcel post arriving in good condition without a single casualty, according to word received from Spokane by Charles Long of the Long Chick Hatchery, Wednesday.

Long has hatched 50,000 chicks so far this year and has shipped more than half of these to points all over the country but the shipment to Spokane is the longest on record.

The firm that received the 25 has ordered a shipment of 1,000 chicks. The chicks were one day old and shipped in cardboard boxes filled with excelsior. Baby chicks do not need food until they are 160 hours old so they do not require feeding during their journey.

According to Postmaster Sullivan the chicks arrived in Spokane 66 hours after they left Lima. The Pennsylvania takes them to Chicago and from there they go on the Great Northern direct to Spokane.

Army Plane Crashes to the Ground in Virginia

HAMPTON, Va. — (By Associated Press) — Sergeant Noble C. Bryant, army air service, was killed and Lieutenant Thomas H. Ward, probably fatally injured today at Langley field when their machine crashed to the earth while emerging from a low hanging cloud bank. The machine was demolished.

Bryant, whose home is in Mayfield, Ky., was piloting the craft which had gone up to make rapid tests in connection with preparations for the army's attack test on navy vessels in June. It was believed he lost his bearings in the cloud bank. His death was the first air fatality at the field in nearly a year, although scores of machines, many of them carrying bombs, are up every day.

PLANS TO RELIEVE HOME SHORTAGE IN LIMA ARE DISCUSSED BY CHAMBER

Preliminary plans for a holding company that it is believed will remedy the housing shortage were discussed and approved at a meeting of the chamber of commerce housing committee late Tuesday.

Further details are being worked out and definite plans will be determined at a meeting "tonday afternoon. These will be submitted to the board of directors of the chamber of commerce at its meeting next Wednesday.

The success of the plan depends upon the co-operation received from vacant lot owners, members of the chamber of commerce and the public who will be asked to buy bonds.

The plan is to obtain a large number of vacant lots that are for sale and thru the sale of bonds raise enough money to build houses on them that can be sold and be paid for like rent.

A survey is being made to determine the number of families that would purchase homes on a payment plan.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a yellow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

INMATES DECLARED RECKLESSLY EXPOSED

COLUMBUS — Inmates of state institutions have been recklessly exposed to tuberculosis, M. C. Shaw, president of the board of administration, charged in a report to Governor Davis today.

Shaw declared the state will be caused a financial loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars as the result of laxity in case of state cattle herds.

Toledo State Hospital and the Boys' Industrial Home at Lancaster have fed inmates milk from herds which 62 per cent of the cows were tubercular, according to Shaw's report. The infected cows must be killed, causing a loss of $10,000 to the state, Shaw declared.

"The great proportion of the infection is the direct failure of inspection," the report said.

PARLEY TO AVERT STRIKE HELD

U. S. Takes Hand in Threatened Walkout of Seamen

WASHINGTON.—(By Associated Press.)—In an effort to avert the threatened strike of marine workers set for May 1, Chairman Benson of the shipping board had here today representatives of these workers and the owners and operators of American steamships for a conference. He hoped to obtain the adoption of a new agreement covering wages and working conditions.

The conference was called by the chairman after negotiations in New York between the owners and some of the marine unions had resulted in a break, and a call had been issued by the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association for a strike May 1, when existing agreements expired. The International Seamen's Union, according to its president, Andrew Furuseth, voted not to accept the wage reductions, issued no formal call for a strike.

A reduction in wages of from 20 to 30 per cent was sought by the owners, but the men refused to consider the wage cuts and made counter demands for certain changes in the present regulations. Chairman Benson, however, has said that some reduction in wages and the elimination of overtime were essential to the permanency of the American Merchant Marine in view of the changed economic conditions of the past year.

ROBY SHOT HIS BIGGEST GAME

Well Known Cigar Packer Tells How Syrola Figured in a Hunting Trip

Most everyone connected with the Deisel-Wemmer Co.'s cigar factories knows Arley Roby, the popular packer of 121 S. Union-st., Lima, and appreciates that he is not only expert in his chosen work but has considerable ability as an angler and hunter. Recently, Mr. Roby made a hunting trip that ended in his bagging the biggest game he ever downed—renewed health. He said to the Syrola Man:

"I expect I tried everything man could think of in an effort to get rid of indigestion and catarrh, which were pulling me down. Many medicines were recommended to me, but none of them did me any good until I got Syrola.

"My good went to go bad after meals and I'd either bloat up with gas or suffer from heartburn. I always had a bad taste in my mouth, and after eating I'd get so dizzy and played-out that I hadn't any energy enough to lift my hand. What was a misery, and frequent headaches made it all the worse for me. I scarcely got a wink of sleep some nights on account of pain in my stomach.

"I thought Syrola wasn't any better than the other medicines I took, but to my surprise the first bottle caused a marked improvement. It not only mended my digestion, but I can eat a hearty meal without suffering from it, but my head is clearer from catarrh than it has been in months. No one need suffer from stomach trouble or catarrh when they can get Syrola right here in town."

Syrola is being especially commended by a laboratory representative at the Public Drug Store, 142 N. Main-st., Lima.—Adv.

Note: It would be illegal to publish these statements if they were not true.

Mrs. D. A. Witt, 45 Lincoln St., says in her own home paper, the Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch: "I had an exophthalmic goitre and suffered beyond description for three years. I was a nervous wreck and in a terribly run down condition. I had almost given up in despair when a friend advised me to use Sorbol Quadruple. PROMINENT MAN COULD SEE BIG CHANGE AT ONCE

Often had dizzy spells, headache, headache, catarrh of the head and nose, gastritis and indigestion. Drego gave relief. Now sells at old price.

Imagine suffering for years with stomach trouble; imagine not being able to enjoy a single meal in all that time. Wouldn't you be happy if, after all those years, you finally discovered a medicine that relieved your troubles? Wouldn't you just be ready to offer up a prayer of thanksgiving and joy be heaven for the new found health?

This, in substance, has been the remarkable experience of a well known man right here in this section. Here are some of the things he says in effect in his signed statement. He is Mr. Peter Schlosser, well known yard engineer for the B. & O. living at 540 N. McDonald-st., Lima, O.

"I have had to be very careful for years about my eating, as my stomach has been in bad condition. About three weeks ago I bought some Drego, and that was the turning point for me. I believe the first dose helped, for my stomach was soothed and the gastritis relieved. Continuing the treatment has completely overcome that stomach disorder, roused my sluggish liver to action, strengthened my kidneys, which put a stop to backache and sore, aching muscles. I have a wonderful appetite; my strength has increased; I sleep sound and the constipation is overcome. My stomach is better than in many a year, and I eat things now I never dared eat before. Drego is sure a great medicine and deserves all the good things said about it."

Drego is now sold by all good druggists and is highly recommended in Lima by Baldwin's Central Drug store, cor Main and High-sts. Adv.

OHIO MAY VOTE ON TAX PROPOSAL

Legislative Committee Expected to Agree on Plan Today

COMPROMISE NOW LIKELY

Griswold Debt Limitation Measure Before Senate

COLUMBUS — (By Associated Press) — Appointment of an informal conference committee composed of three members of the senate and three members of the house to agree upon a tax proposal to be submitted to the voters next November, was expected to be announced today following adoption in the senate yesterday of the Whittemore classification resolution and agreement of the house to adopt today the Fouts resolution taxing real and personal property by uniform rule and taxing intangibles at not less than 5 mills.

The Whittemore resolution which abrogates the uniform rule permits adoption of classification and a tax limitation on real estate into the constitution of 15 mills in rural districts and 18 mills in cities will be before the house today as well as the Fouts resolution. Both will be referred to the informal conference committee to be named which is expected to recommend for passage a compromise proposal.

Taligent rules opponents were preparing for the final battle with the favoring classification. Governor Davis has urged senate and house leaders to recommend some taxation proposal to the voters. House leaders were not optimistic over the outlook today. They had little hope of the senate accepting the Fouts proposal and said they were confident the house would not adopt the Whittemore proposal in its present form.

DEBT LIMITATION. The Griswold debt limitation proposal which has already passed the house was to come before the senate for passage today. A lively contest is expected on the proposal to insert an amendment in this proposal which would permit cities to extend or acquire public utilities. The senate committee on taxation refused to accept the amendment.

The Brand bill changing existing methods of levying school revenue funds, reducing the one and eight-tenths mill state levy to fifteen hundredths of a mill, was ready for Governor Davis' signature today.

MINIMUM WAGE. Although the senate committee on manufacture and commerce killed the Schrimper minimum wage bill for women and minors last night, by a vote of four to three, proponents of the bill had not given up hope today of passage of this bill.

A substitute bill recommended by the committee which advocates of the Schrimper bill rejected, is said to be similar to the Massachusetts minimum wage law. It provides that the lieutenant governor, secretary of state, attorney general, auditor of state and treasurer of state shall constitute the minimum wage commission. Payment of minimum wage would be permissive. No penalties for violation are provided. All classes of women workers would be included.

ADJOURNMENT PLANS. A joint resolution providing for final adjournment of the general assembly on May 12, adopted by the house of representatives last night without a dissenting vote, was to come before the senate today. The senate is expected to refuse to agree to final adjournment, preferred to recess until next January. Governor Davis is said to have asked both senate and house leaders to adjourn sine die.

It is the plan of house leaders to practically complete work of the session this week and then recess until May 12, when they will return to set on the biennial appropriation bill and sign bills.

TRUCKS NOT AVAILABLE FOR USE OF TOWNSHIPS

Glen I. Wallace, clerk of the board of county commissioners, has received word from the state highway department that no trucks will be available from that department for the use of townships in the county.

The department says that at the present time not even trucks for counties are available. An appeal had been made to county commissioners for trucks for township use.

BEVERAGE LICENSE ACT IS UPHELD BY COURT

AKRON.—A court decision of state-wide importance was issued Wednesday when visiting Judge Walter D. Jones, Piqua, Ohio, upheld the validity of the Akron beverage license ordinance. Many cities throughout the state have patterned laws from the local ordinance which is adjudged the most effective means yet used to curb illicit liquor traffic.

The finding of Judge Jones was handed down from a test suit brought by John Loeberle, former out-drink parlor proprietor who was refused a beverage license.

CITY OF CANTON MAY LOSE NATIONAL GUARD CAVALRY

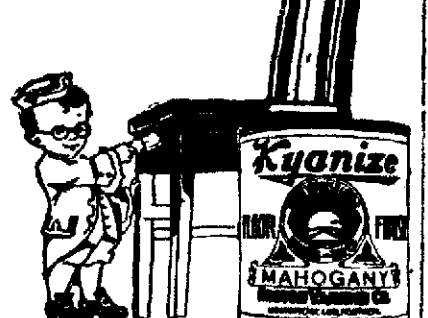

COLUMBUS.—Alleged failure of the Stark-co Fair Association to live up to its promises to allow the state to use stables at the county fair grounds may cause Canton to lose its troop of Ohio national guard cavalry, as did Ashtabula.

Guard officials say that the fair association withdrew permission to use the fair ground stables, expressing fear that the army horses might transmit some disease to pure bred horses and racers at the fair grounds.

If the Canton Chamber of Commerce succeeds in obtaining money to erect a cheap, temporary armor for the horses and troop, the troop will remain, it is said. Otherwise, it will go to some other city.

MOTHERS OPPOSE KNEE DISPLAY

Fight Opens in Washington Meeting for Dress Reform

WASHINGTON.—(By United Press) —Missouri today joined in the lead in the fight to take the feminine knee out of the public eye. The state, thru its delegates, went on record at the National Congress of Mothers and Parent Teachers Association here as opposed to the display of knees, shin bones and large areas of breast bone.

Mrs. Mary Ward Morgan, chairman of the publicity committee of the Missouri State Branch, and Mrs. William C. Mann, president, declared to the delegates their intention to carry their fight for dress reform to all parts of the nation. They reported surprising success in the high schools of Missouri.

Here is the costume of the Missouri high school girl:
A middie, blue skirt reaching well down to the ankles, cotton hose and low-heeled shoes.

Cosmetics of all sorts are barred. Just enough powder to take the shine off the nose is allowed.

Both Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. Ullmann, who are residents of Springfield, Mo., reported that the year of Mothers and Parent Teachers Association reform dress has been one of the most successful school years in the actual work of the year. Mrs. Morgan said the psychology and democracy of simple dress were recorded in the same said.

THE KILLER

most extraordinary agility, thrashed a lone house fly, and returned. "—and you will undoubtedly be ready for it."

My last impression as I left the room was of the baleful, dead, challenging stare of the man's wildcat eyes.

The Mexican glided before me. We walked along the veranda and entered a bedroom. My guide disappeared.

The one door and one window opened into the court. The other side was blank except that near the ceiling ran a curious, long, narrow opening closed by a transom-like sash. I concluded that it must have been a sort of loophole for musketry in the old days. Probably they had some kind of scaffold to stand on.

I pulled on my shirt and took a good wash; removed my spurs and chaps, knotted my shirt and tucked down my wet hair. I took off my gun belt also, but thrust the revolver inside the waistband of my drawers.

Then I sat down to wait. Never before nor since have I experienced such stillness.

At the end of the half hour I returned to the parlor. Old Man Hooper was there waiting. A hanging lamp had been lighted. Out of the shadows cast from it a slender figure rose and came forward.

"My daughter, Mr. —" He paused.

"Sanborn," I supplied.

The girl was very pale, with black hair and wide eyes under a fair, wide brow. She only bowed slightly.

We went at once into a dining room at the end of the little dark hall, lighted by a suspended lamp that threw the illumination straight down on a table perfect in its appointments. The same Mexican served us delightful food, well cooked. The old man talked, urbanely, of a wide range of topics. The girl never raised her eyes from her plate.

From the blackness outside a single frog began to chirp. My host's flow of words suddenly ceased. He raised his head uneasily; then, without apology, glided from the room. The Mexican remained, bolt upright, in the dimness.

For the first time the girl spoke. Her voice was low and sweet.

"Ramon," she said in Spanish, "I am chilly. Close the window."

The servant turned his back to obey. With a movement rapid as a snake's dart the girl's hand came from beneath the table, reached across and thrust into mine a small, folded paper. The next instant she was staring down as before in apparent apathy.

At the end of a period my host returned, resumed his seat, and took up his remarks where he had left them.

The girl disappeared somewhere between the table and the sitting room. Old Man Hooper offered me a cigar and sat down deliberately to entertain me. His manner was detached and a little precise. Every few moments he burst into a flurry of activity with the fly whacker, but returning always calmly to his discourse with an air of never having moved from his chair.

I noticed the very first chirp of another frog outside and watched my host covertly. After a few repetitions I saw subtle signs of uneasiness. He came soon, again, he glided from the room. The old Mexican servant came and pretended to fuss with the lamps.

My curiosity was now thoroughly aroused, but like the bedroom this parlor gave out only on the interior court. The flash of lanterns against the ceiling above reached me. The chirp of the frog came to an abrupt end.

Shortly my host returned and took up the monologue.

I asked him, apropos of the piano, whether his daughter played.

"Do you like music?" he added, and seated himself at the instrument.

He played to me for half an hour. I know he played well and that he played good things. For the first time he came out of himself, abandoned himself to feeling. His close-cropped head arched from side to side; his staring, wildcat eyes half closed.

He slammed shut the piano and arose, more dryly precise than ever.

"I imagine all that is rather beyond you," he remarked. "Here is a short document I would have you take to your room for perusal. Good night."

He tendered me a small, folded paper. I was only too delighted to repair to my bedroom.

There I examined the first of the papers I drew from my pocket. It proved to be the one from the girl, and read as follows:

"I am here against my will. I am not this man's daughter. For God's sake, if you can help me, do so. But be careful for he is a dangerous man. My room is the last one on the left wing of the court. I am constantly guarded. I do not know what you can do. The case is hopeless. I cannot write more. I am watched."

I unfolded the paper Hooper himself had given me and read: "I am held a prisoner. This man Hooper is not my father, but he is vindictive and cruel and dangerous. Beware for yourself. I live in the last room in the left wing. I am watched, so cannot write more."

The handwriting was the same. (To be continued.)

DEFENSE RESTS IN LAMPY CASE

Van Wert Murder Trial is Nearing Its Close ACCUSED TELLS HIS STORY

Ridge-top Waives Rights to Inheritance Tax Share

VAN WERT — (Special) — Following the testimony of John Lampy, defendant in the case now in progress, charged with first degree murder for shooting of George DeCamp, the defense rested its case Tuesday afternoon. After a short intermission the state called O. J. Myers and B. A. Myers of Celina, and S. A. McGee of York-top character witnesses, who testified that George DeCamp as they knew him was a quiet man.

Trustees of Ridge-top acting in accordance with the state taken by the council of the city of Van Wert have drawn up a resolution waiving all rights to their share of the inheritance tax ruled as legal by Attorney General Price of Ohio.

Price held that the will leaving the greater part of estate to establish an orphan's home and school was invalid because Mr. Marsh died within a year from the time the paper was drawn up and so the property should revert to his daughter Mrs. Katie Marsh Clymer and an inheritance tax be paid. Marsh has arranged with Mrs. Clymer that she should turn the estate over in case any thing of the kind happened.

The question of the tax has been holding up the work on the erection of the home. In return for such action the executors of the estate promised to maintain the Paulding road and the McCoy road where they are in touch with the Marsh farm.

SPEED COP TAKES IN 6 VIOLATORS

Rola Glover Chases Down Sex-tette—Four Fined

Speed Cop Rola Glover arrested six motorists during the storm Tuesday night, charged with violating traffic laws.

J. L. Schnorvel, 314 W. Wayne-st., was stopped on W. Market-st., for driving his automobile without lights. He was fined $1 in criminal court Wednesday morning.

Jack Neff, 1265 Lakewood-ave., sales manager for the Lima Motor Car company, was fined $10 for speeding on W. Market-st.

E. H. Roberts, 722 W. Elm-st., told Judge Jackson that the rain had caused a short circuit in his machine which caused one light to go out. His case was dismissed.

R. H. Cook, 785 W. High-st., pleaded not guilty to a charge of speeding his automobile at 30 miles per hour along W. Market-st. He was to be given a hearing in criminal court at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

C. D. Nechling, 36 of 1114 S. John's-ave was fined $1 for driving his automobile with only one light burning. He was arrested on N. Central-ave.

ENVIRONMENT IS BOYS' GUIDE

Chaplain Declares Surroundings Determine Their Course

That environment is the only difference between the good boy and the bad boy was the statement by Dr. H. W. Kellogg, chaplain of the Mansfield Reformatory, in an address Tuesday night before the Child Welfare bureau at the Lima Club.

Dr. Kellogg stated that the community must come to the aid of the home today or everything will be lost. Recreation is the big problem in every city and is one which must be handled by the city as a whole.

"There is three times as much juvenile delinquency during the summer vacation as during school," said the speaker. "Boys must be given something to do for a busy boy will not commit crime."

An interesting work is being done by Miss Anna Moore at the different recreational centers in the city. Play is being supervised and community centers organized. Nutrition classes in the schools have been provided and many children enabled to regain their health.

MANY CHILDREN EXAMINED

Miss Ida Nickel, rural school visiting nurse, has examined more than 4,000 school children during the past year. Of these 25 per cent were found to be normal while the rest had some defect of the eyes, ears, nose, throat or some constitutional disease. Recommendations were made to the parents and in a number of instances meetings with the mothers were held and the whole subject of health discussed. Miss Nickel, who has resigned, will be succeeded May 1 by Miss Charlotte Bennett.

Supervision of the children under the care of the boarding division of the Child Welfare was discussed in the report of Miss Eunice Trumbo. She told of various cases that had come to her attention and made an appeal for clothing for some of the unfortunate children.

At the afternoon meeting at the Y. M. C. A. the following officers were elected: President, Dr. Josephine LePore; vice president, Walter Parmenter; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Guy Bayly; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lester Pratt.

TITLE QUETED.

Title was quieted by the court of common pleas Tuesday in the action of E. B. Moyer against Catherine T. Stemmmons. The test only showed Moyer had been in possession of the property, consisting of 76 acres of land in Section 20, Auglaize-twp, many years.

HAVE TO GET UP NIGHTS?

If So Your Bladder is Irritated. Try This Simple Remedy.

Win D. Ostermeyer, 224 E. Second St., Dayton, Ohio says in his own home paper, the Dayton Daily News. "My bladder caused me to get up many times at night and inconvenienced me as often as every 30 minutes in the day. After taking a few lithiated buchu tablets, by bladder is perfectly normal. They also relieved me of a very lame back. It gives me much pleasure to tell my friends about these little tablets."

Lithiated buchu acts on the kidneys and bladder like Epsom salts on the bowels. It cleans out the impurities, which cause the irritation. It is not a patent medicine, as the formula is on the package. The tablets cost 2c each. This price makes it possible to place in the formula several high priced drugs, which are necessary to give prompt relief. Yet likely you have never taken anything like it. Try a few doses for backache, stinging scanty or high colored urine, frequent desire, gravel and other deposits of the bladder. BANDIT TAKEN AFTER CHASE THRU TUNNEL

NEW YORK — After three men held up a French steamship chef in a Brooklyn subway station early today and robbed their victim of $325 in cash, one of them took refuge in the subway tube leading under the East river to Manhattan.

The Frenchman related his plight in broken English to the ticket collector who started several workmen, armed several workmen, armed with crowbars, wrenches and other tools in pursuit.

The fugitive, who gave his name as Harry Gross, was caught after he had traversed the subterranean passage to Wall-st, having successfully dodged several subway trains that roared thru the tunnel. The other two assailants escaped.

POOLING OF RAIL WORK URGED

Union Leader Says Plan Will Save $100,000,000

WILL CONSOLIDATE OFFICES

Outlines Method Before Labor Board in Wage Fight

(CHICAGO—(By United Press.)

Details of how organized labor here has organized the United States railroad workers' union in expenditures annually, were described by W. Jett Lauck, American Federation of Labor economist today, in a statement to the United States railroad labor board.

Lauck appeared as a witness for railroad unions in their fight to prevent reduction of wages asked by the railroads.

"Highest efficiency in railroad administration will be obtained through a national unified control or a regional control, which will utilize all existing facilities regardless of competing claims," Lauck said.

McADOO QUOTED

He quoted former Director General William G. McAdoo to show that "there is no question but that great economies are possible under unified management in the direction of comprehensive national plan for transporting products with minimum effort in the shortest line from point to point."

Lauck suggested pooling of repair shops, elimination of circuitous rail routes, unification of terminals, consolidation of ticket offices, mileage tickets, standardization of equipment, maintenance of uniform "eight classifications, maintenance of common time tables between important points, high demurrage rates and utilization of water routes for relief of crowded rail lines.

Pooling of locomotives and cars were recommended to meet traffic congestion. He said this would be impossible under private control.

BAD MANAGEMENT CHARGED

Lauck charged failure to adopt economic devices, to standardize locomotives, over-development of motive power in respect to other facilities, inefficient handling at the terminals, labor turnover waste, preventable loss and damage, poor accounting and other alleged extravagances cost the railroads $963,500,000 annually.

Engine terminals and shops are from ten to 30 years behind the times rendering them about 50 percent efficient, he charged.

The "unscientific" way of railroad classification yards, road beds, passing sidings, coaling and water facilities, bridges, signal equipment and communication has been so neglected as to be another source of waste and inefficiency." Bridges, it was declared, are in many instances too light to permit the hauling of maximum load trains. Installation of permanent bridges, while calling for a big outlay in cash, would net millions in savings to railroads each year, Lauck said.

STRIKE INSURANCE IS DECLARED VALUELESS

COLUMBUS—Strike compensation insurance policies secured by Ohio Master Printers, a practically valueless, according to a ruling by B. W. Gearheart, state insurance commissioner. Gearheart held that the policies could not be enforced in an Ohio court. Under state laws, an insurance company is without authority to do business without having obtained a license from his department. Gearheart's opinion said. The ruling was made when John J. Hoban, president of the Cleveland Typographical Union, inquired as to ouster proceedings in the supreme court against a Maryland company, which had been issuing strike protection without a license. He found the proceedings could not be brought because the company had no agents in the state.

ALL THE MONEY YOU HAVE CANNOT BUY TWO WORDS IN THESE COLUMNS

BUSINESS IS REVIVING

THERE is no individual in the makeup of the business life of America that is more typical as a reflection of conditions as they really are than the traveling salesman. He is a barometer that it is unfailing. When he is numerous and busy, the country is prosperous and good times prevail.

The aftermath of the war, as readjustment asserted itself, forced from their wonted activity hundreds and thousands of these active business promoters. A lull in buying and sky high prices rendered their calling a precarious one. All that is changing now. Wholesale houses that had cut their traveling forces to the very minimum, content to take care of what little business there was available with small forces, are now realizing the necessity of more representatives on the road.

Initial trips made by men returned to their former routes have been prolific of the most encouraging reports. Increased buying is the order and a better and more widespread sentiment of optimism prevails. This is particularly true of the south and southwest, where for long months stagnation was most marked.

Merchants who believed that commodity prices would make further drops have apparently realized that they were mistaken and consequently have reentered the markets. Where traveling men have heretofore been unnecessary and where buying has been so small that a mail order was all sufficient, the knights of the grip are finding a revival of business that is encouraging.

Failure and refusal of merchants to buy products was largely responsible for stagnation of manufacture. That too is changing now. Slowly, it is true, factories are resuming, the unemployment situation is taking on a more promising aspect and the labor situation is being adjusted. There will likely be further readjustments in the matter of prices, but it is firmly believed that they will be gradual. No sensational declines or advances are anticipated.

TOO MUCH EVEN FOR RUSSIA

SOVIET Russia is becoming nauseated with the sort of reds, bolsheviks, anarchists and communists we have been sending from these shores to that unhappy land. The latest ship load consists of 75 persons. And it will be the last, for Russia has called a halt, refusing to admit more of them.

When deportations first began, Russia apparently was happy to receive them. Individuals of the Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman type apparently have opened the eyes of the soviet leaders to the fact that even in that country such wild eyed theorists are dangerous.

Everything goes under the government of Lenin and Trotsky, or rather it used to be so, but apparently they are awakening to the fact that American visionaries and radicals are not desirable. Whereas, the first ships that sailed away from these shores bearing parties of individuals no longer necessary or desirable to Uncle Sam, were hailed in Russian ports, they are no longer welcome.

And the strangest part of it all is that those who have been forcibly invited to have their letters addressed to them in Russia, oppose deportation strenuously. Their constitutional rights are invoked, despite the fact that they alienated themselves from such rights. Before they come under the eye of the discriminating government that seeks to rid itself of festering sores of revolution, these radicals apparently are obsessed with the idea that Russia is a paradise; that it is a land flowing with milk and honey; where one has but to wish and 'tis his.

But stern reality tells a different tale. Instead of being met with brass bands and high honors, they are made the subject of close investigation and rigid scrutiny by the soviet government. Well defined rules and laws are laid down for them and warning is given that certain bounds must not be overstepped. In other words, no matter how irksome the soviet government plan becomes, they must not complain or seek to interfere.

Some of the undesirables we have sent to Moscow have been fomenting revolution and about the next thing we know the soviet will be sending them back to us, as undesirable even in Russia.

THE ELKS CARNIVAL

WITHIN a few days Lima Lodge, No. 54, Benevolent Protective Order of Elks will open another great carnival. It is expected that it will surpass any held heretofore, the fame of which have spread thru Elkdom to the far corners of the country.

Lima is to be congratulated upon having within its borders an organization of boosters such as the Elks lodge. Composed of nearly 2,000 wide-awake men who are ever ready to perform an act of service, this lodge has become an important factor in the city's life. It is more than a social club—it is a community organization with the best interest of every person at heart.

The carnival, which will be in the form of entertainment for men and women, young and old, is for a worthy cause. A big percentage of the proceeds will go to charity for the assistance of worthy poor to be administered thru the welfare organization, and the remainder to help pay for the magnificent lodge home to which every citizen points with pride, even tho he may not be a member of the fraternity.

The Elks building has become a meeting place for home folk and visitors. There may be secured accommodations such as would be impossible were it not for the home. For that reason the community at large is interested in its welfare.

The carnival should be a success. The men in charge have given much time and labor to make it enjoyable. The public ought to be generous in its support.

CRIME DOESN'T PAY

DESPITE the fact that scores and hundreds of pages on court dockets in this and other states, showing the record of cases disposed of, the men and women named thereon now behind prison walls, indicates positively and conclusively that crime doesn't pay, many others continue to follow the beaten path that leads to disgrace and punishment.

The latest example of the fallacy of crime that has come to light in connection with the administration of justice in the local courts is that of Grant Seymour. Young, well educated; in demeanor, dress and bearing a gentleman, he applied his talents in a channel that directed his footsteps inevitably to a prison cell.

Relying on his expert knowledge of the forgery of names of responsible persons and with an exhibition of talent that deserved use in a better cause, Seymour floated bad checks right and left, traveling thru nearly all the states of the union, leaving behind him a trail of wrongdoing that demanded extraordinary effort on the part of officers of the law in bringing retribution upon him.

Nemesis in the form of a woman trailed him away from Allen-co, to Detroit and from the Michigan city back to Allen-co. With trunks and suit cases filled with fine clothing and haberdashery, Seymour was making his way westward to "green fields and pastures new" when he was taken. He is under sentence to the Ohio penitentiary, where, with only a number for a name and hard labor as his portion, he will have ample opportunity to reflect upon his wrongdoing.

GRASS AND CHILDREN

I used to want a lovely lawn, a level patch of green,
For I have marveled many times at those that I have seen,
And in my early dreams of youth the home that I should keep Possessed a lawn of beauty rare, a velvet carpet deep,
But I have changed my mind since then—for then I didn't know
That where the feet of children run the grass can never grow.
Now I might own a lovely lawn, but I should have to say
To all the little ones about, "Go somewhere else to play!"
And I should have to stretch a wire about my garden space
And make the home where gladness reigns, a place for grass to grow.

WHAT THE STARS PREDICT

This is a lucky day. Under this rule of the stars those who seek new appointments or engage in new undertakings, should succeed.
Today is very lucky for presidents, governors, and all who administer public affairs.
Again a prophecy is made that there will be a change in the President's cabinet, probably before autumn.
A kindly star rules Chicago and the Middle West, and great prosperity should mark this section of the country in the near future.
Persons whose birthday this is, should have an unusually successful and happy year, marked by travel and great material prosperity.
Children born today will be successful in all their undertakings if they overcome a tendency to selfishness and egotism.

PRETTY TEXAS GIRL IS

Hope Hampton Became Famous Over Night As Movie Actress
in "The Bait"

"The Passion Flower" is Story of Stage Loves and Hates
—It's Recommended

(By ESTHER WAGNER)
HERE'S a big romantic melodrama bristling with thrills and heart appeal. It is "The Bait," made by Maurice Tourneur, who also produced "The White Heather," "Deep Waters," and many other successes. It features the leading role Miss Hope Hampton, the vivacious Texas beauty who sprang almost overnight to fame in the film world, and is the most promising and talked-about of all the younger stars.
"The Bait" begins with a thrill—a shooting fray in the dark that starts up a breath-taking pace right to the end. The heroine is a shop-girl who is "framed" by a master crook so that she will come under his power. Then, when he has won her gratitude by a seemingly kind act, he tries to use her as a pawn in a game to blackmail a young millionaire.
"The Bait" is an adaptation of Sidney Toller's play "The Tiger Lady," which had a successful Broadway run. It will appear here soon.

"The Passion Flower"

IF YOU will visit the Regent this week you will see before you a picture of strange loves and hates in "The Passion Flower," which stars Norma Talmadge, a picture that dares to go the usual happy ending. No "clutch and fade out" here, but a gallant mother growing smilingly rigid in death against the tumorous bosom of the daughter, who has rescued from shame with her heart's blood.
It would never do to make the statement positively, but it seems to me that Enid Blyden comes pretty near being the star of this photoplay. She is the mother, and her work is fine, delicate and clean cut.
She portrays tenderness, strength, passion and sacrifice with power and an exquisite reticence. You have seen Miss Jensen before but never as you see her in "The Passion Flower." Nance O'Neill had the role of the mother in the stage version of this tale.

The film must have been pretty hard to work out without offending anyone. Herbert Brenon, however, has performed the feat. He presents to you simply, dramatically and cleanly the following story:
Acacia's widowed mother marries again. The girl, who had idolized her father, resents her action and vows eternal hatred against Esteban her step-father.
Esteban who has come prepared to be a father to the child, finds himself in deep contempt by Acacia, but before he realizes the fact, he finds that he has conceived a mad infat-uation for her which spurs him to the breaking up of one engagement and the murder of the youth to whom she is finally betrothed.
Vipers and tragedy stalk through the house. More and more often the girl cries, "I hate you!" Then one day an old servant utters the words "You do not hate him. You love him!"
"You lie!" the Passion Flower
cries. Then she adds brokenly,
"God grant you lie!"
But it is the truth.
The mother, Raimunda, learning

HOPE HAMPTON

it at the same time the knowledge rushes over her daughter, goes to the door and calls the police—for the Esteban has murdered, she has loved and shielded him. She gives him up and falls with a bullet wound in her heart.
Miss Talmadge is beautiful as the Passion Flower, Acacia, and does her usual sincere, exquisite work in Harrison Ford and Cortenay
Foote, she has excellent support.
The locale and sets are in keeping with the story which, as seems, is one of the nicest Miss Talmadge has given us for some time.
It's bound to please you, is "The Passion Flower." At the Regent the remainder of this week.

Ed Wynn Carnival

FRESH from Metropolitan triumphs and much improved since last seen locally, when it was in its experimental stages, comes "The Ed Wynn Carnival" (first edition) with Ed Wynn "the perfect fool" and the exact original production and company which helped to make new records both at the New Amsterdam Theatre, New York, all last summer and quite recently at the Illinois Theatre, Chicago, to the Faurot on Saturday, May 7th.
Ed kept his Carnival on the road last season for four months before he whipped it into shape for its Metropolitan premiere and then to make doubly sure that everything would be "sure fire" he called in that wizard of production and stagecraft, Ned Wayburn (he of "Ziegfeld 'Polities' fame) and between them turned out a unique entertainment so different that the critics raved about it all during the long New York engagement. And then, quite recently, too,
"the windy city" was visited at the Illinois Theatre for three months and again, the "Ed Wynn Carnival" was a sensational triumph and now, after brief engagement in a few other cities, Lima is to be favored with this engagement.

BEAUTY IN MOVIES

Mrs. Lydie Hoyt

NEW YORK (Special)—The beauty of Mrs. Lydie Hoyt, who has been said to possess more of that quality than any woman in America, is no longer to be familiar only to the socially elect of New York and Newport.

The famous beauty is soon to be pictured upon the screen. Mrs. Hoyt is going into the movies where millions will have an opportunity to admire her classic features.

Mrs. Hoyt's beauty has won her world-wide fame. She recently won a newspaper contest, being voted the handsomest woman in America. She is the second member of society to enter the moving picture industry. Mrs. Morgan Belmont made her debut as motion picture actress last year.

"Wonderful Thing," to be produced by Joseph M. Schenck, starring Norma Talmadge, his wife, is the name of the picture that Mrs. Hoyt will make her debut in.

Julia Hoyt, as the young society woman will be known in the motion picture business, will play the part of Mrs. Truesdale and be a co-star with Miss Talmadge.

That Mrs. Hoyt was to enter the moving picture field surprised many of her friends, but to some it has been known for several weeks.

Her style of beauty, dark hair and eyes, slender and graceful figure, is the one most sought by producers. Mrs. Hoyt, it is expected, will make a tremendous hit in the profession. Paul Helleu, the French artist, included her in his types of truly American womanhood. She recently posed for Sargent, who also proclaimed her to be the most beautiful woman in this country.

Mrs. Hoyt is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Robbins. She was married to Lydie Hoyt in 1914.

The ambition to appear before the camera is increasing in social circles. Lady Diana Manners of London (now Lady Duff Cooper) cabled to David Warfield Griffith several months ago that she wished to enter upon a career in the moving pictures.

65,000 GIRLS DISAPPEAR IN YEAR

WASHINGTON—(By United Press)—Sixty-five thousand girls disappeared in the United States last year without leaving a trace. The great majority were lured to the big cities from the small towns and farms. They have dropped from sight and their fate is unsolved mystery.

This story was brought to the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers' Association's convention here today with a plea for the creation of a central bureau to help find missing girls. Lieut. Catherine Van Winkle, of the District of Columbia police department, told the convention one of the biggest needs of the country was to save the army of girls who annually are lost in maelstroms of big cities. Police departments and civic associations are unable to cope with the situation successfully, she said.

She asked the convention to take immediate steps to create a central bureau and auxiliary bureaus in all parts of the country for the purpose of co-ordinating and enlarging the facilities for tracing lost girls.

Plans were being made to ask the convention to launch a vigorous campaign against "loose morals." Mrs. Ward Morgan and Mrs. William Ulmann, of the Missouri State organization, were prepared to introduce resolutions demanding abolition of checking corsets by school girls and older women while attending dances: The knee length dress. Diaphanous attire. Rouge. Suggestive dances. Objectionable movies.

SUMMER RESORTS NOW CALLING TO SEEKERS OF REST

(By ROSEMARY CHRISTEN)

ALTHOUGH it is only the latter part of April, many Lima people are "taking time by the forelock" and are now making delightful plans for the hot, summer months.

There are so many lovely summer resorts where one can enjoy the summer months that sometimes it is most difficult to decide upon one certain place.

Perhaps some of the most popular and beautiful summer places are found at Cape Cod, Mass. Because of the beautiful surroundings and scenery, these resorts have become a great gathering place for artists, each year outdoing the previous in the number who devote the entire summer months there.

Among the Lima people who are now contemplating enjoying at least a part of the summer months there are Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Mackenzie, Judge and Mrs. Phil Crow, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Larsen and Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Baker.

There was springtime in the air Tuesday evening when the Woman's Music club chorus gave an excellent recital at Memorial hall.

Mrs. Millie Sonntag T'fer certainly must have been gratified by the work of the chorus which she created by earnest endeavors thru the past winter and which responded to her slightest direction with precision. Miss Nellie Kriete, who plays in such a perfect way and inspires confidence in both tender and singers, accompanied at the piano.

The first numbers were a great treat to the splendid audience. The serious "Turn Not From Me" by Bononcini being followed by Darius's dainty "Dance Little Maid."

Following these came three soprano solos by one of Van West's most vocalists, Miss Hazel Gleason, soprano, who sang a most unusual song, "Grieg's 'First Meeting'."

"The Night Wind" by Farley was new to everyone. "The Bitterness of Love" by Dunn was a lovely number to which rounds of applause were given. Miss Gleason was compelled to respond with a joyous spring song.

"After a Dream" by Faure was a very beautiful arrangement. Another of Dunn's compositions arranged around the popular old English song, "It Was a Lover and His Lass" was very delightful.

One of the features of the evening was the great treat of having one of the club's former members, Mrs. Gail Watson Cable, Canton, who played for the club for the first time since her period of study some time ago, under one of the world's masters of the violin, Aner, in St. Petersburg, Russia.

She played Kreisler's "The Old Refrain," which was followed by one number filled with a bewitching rhythm, "The Swing Song," by Barnes, closing her group by playing a selection by a new American composer, Samuel Gardner. To rounds of applause Mrs. Cable gave the much loved "Ave Maria" by Schubert.

The great prize winner that has been produced publicly only twice before was by Richard Gaines and certainly was a study of the people of all Russia, the title being "Fantasy on a Russian Folk Song." Mrs. Cable accompanying on the violin, the ensemble was most inspiring, deserving repetition many times, as it is of high educational value.

CASE WHEREIN YOUNG MAN IS UNREASONABLE

(By SUSIE SMART)

Dear Miss Smart, I am a young girl and am very much in love with a man. He seemed to care a great deal for me and we kept steady company. We were not engaged, however. One day I was coming home from town and I met an old friend of mine who walked thous with me. My friend saw me with this man and now he refuses to come to see me. Should I write him a note and explain that this man is nothing more than a good friend and that I care nothing for him? What should I do?

LONESOME

Y all means do not write to this young man. You should not give him the satisfaction of knowing you care so much for him when he does not seem to be worthy of it. You owe no explanation, whatsoever to him. Surely you can see that for yourself. If you are not engaged it is your privilege to accept such attentions from others as you may choose and he has no right to resent it. Even if you were engaged to him, you have a perfect right to walk with whom ever you choose, providing the person is respectable and the young man should have no reason to object. If he doesn't love and respect you enough to trust you with a friend, his love certainly can't be very lasting and sincere.

The young man should offer you an apology and explain that he regrets the unfriendly attitude which he has shown toward you. He has been very inconsiderate in his method of dropping your friendship so abruptly, without an explanation. Let him be the first to take steps toward a reconciliation and if he refuses, put him out of your mind as quickly as possible. If he is too obstinate to apologize, you can readily see that you could never be happy with such a man.

Dear Miss Smart, I am five feet five inches tall. How much should I weigh? (2) I have a skin trouble. Could you tell me something to cure it? (3) My hair is awful thin and split at the ends. Would you advise me to have it bobbed? I am 22 years old and the mother of two children and I don't like to bob it on that account. I have tried lots of things to make my hair healthy. I am the only one out of the family of five who has thin hair.

(1) About 135 pounds is the average weight for a person your height. (2) I would advise you to see a physician. (3) Since you are a married woman and are 23 years old I do not think it would be wise for you to have your hair bobbed unless it should be absolutely necessary. Perhaps you have not gone to a hair dresser for treatment. I would advise you to go immediately. I think with a few treatments and a determination on your part to take the proper care of your hair you can improve it in a short time.

AN EVERYDAY READER

Dear Miss Smart, I am a young girl 15 years old and am deeply in love with a young man 19 years old. The girl seems to be jealous of us. The other day I visited at his home and they tried to cause a fight and said there was harm in my going out there. Do you really see any harm?

No, I see no harm in you going to the home of the young man if he is respectable and one of his parents with Miss Pauline Hammack, S. Baxter-st, Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Samuel Weinfeld, S. McClell-st, is home from Pittsburgh where she visited for a short time with relatives and friends.

Library Extension committee of the City Federation of clubs met with their chairman, Mrs. E. B. Taylor, W. Spring-st Tuesday afternoon to make plans for the year.

Pythian Sisters have issued invitations for a May Day party to be held in Castle hall, Friday, April 29. Euchre and bridge will be enjoyed in the afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock. The evening program will begin at 8 o'clock. Cards will again be presented as diversion. Proceeds from the affair will be used in philanthropic work.

Mrs. Howard Chew was hostess to the members of the Jitsu Tau club at her home on S. Nye-st. Tuesday. The evening was enjoyed socially and later a dainty repast was served by the hostess.

FOULARDS ARE NEW FOR SPRING WEAR

By ELOISE.

If you ask to see the very newest in spring apparel you will surely be treated to a glimpse of the new foulards which have but recently made their appearance. Navy and white is the favored combination, but browns are also good. Foulards appear almost every spring and after a few weeks of life soon fall by the wayside. This season, however, there have been so many pretty models designed that they are sure to be modified longer than a few weeks.

Here is one smart little frock made in a quaint figured design in navy blue and white. A dainty linear collar finishes the bodice while the tunic which is cut in points is finished with a narrow band of ribbon. Note the long sleeves which go to prove that Dame Fashion is never positive just what the length of a sleeve should be to be stylish. Long sleeves may be noted on many of the dark silk frocks for spring.

THE GOLD GIRL

By JAMES B. HENDRY

Scolding tears blinded her as with quirt and spur she crowded her horse to his utmost. Only one tender hope remained. With Thompson's fresh horse, Lightning, she might yet win the race. The chance was slim, but she would take it! Her own horse was laboring heavily, a solid lather of sweat, as his feet pounded the trail that wound white and hot through the foothills. "It's your last hard ride," she sobbed into his ear as she urged him on. "Win or lose, boy, it's your last hard ride—and we've got to make it!"

She whirled into Thompson's lane and, in the doorway, threw herself from her horse almost into the arms of the big ranchman who stared at her in surprise. "Must be something's busted loose in the hills, the folks is all takin' to th' open!" he exclaimed.

"Where's Lightning?" cried the girl. "Quick! I want him!" "Lightning's gone—Vil Holland come along an hour or so ago, so rode him to town. Turned back into the corral yonder—he was rode down almost as bad as youn."

Patty's brain reeled dizzily as from a blow. Lightning gone! Her one slim chance of saving her mine had vanished in a breath. She felt suddenly weak and sick, and leaning against her saddle for support, she closed her eyes and buried her face in her arm.

"What's the matter, Miss? Something's wrong?"

The girl laughed, a dry, hard laugh, and raising her head, looked into the man's face. "Oh, no!" she said. "Nothing's wrong—nothing except that I've lost my father's claim—lost it because I relied on your horse to carry me into town to file ahead of him."

"Lost your pa's claim?" cried Thompson. "What do you mean—lost? Has that devil dared to show his face after the horse raid?" He gazed suddenly and smiled. "Now don't you go worryin' about that here claim. Vil Holland's on the job. I know'd there was something in the wind when he come a-lurpin' in here an' jerked his kak often."

Back an' throw'd it on Lightning without hardly a word. Vil, he'll beat him! An' when he does, Bethune'll be lucky if he lives long enough to get hung!"

"Bethune! Bethune!" cried the girl bitterly. "Bethune's got nothing to do with it! It's Vil Holland himself that's going to file my claim. Have you got another horse here?" she cried. "If you have I want him! I'm not mean yet! There's still a chance! Maybe Lightning will go down or something. Quick—change my saddle!"

Catching up a rope Thompson ran to the corral and throwing his loop over the head of a horse led him out and transferred the girl's saddle and bridle.

"I don't sit the straight of it," he said, eyeing her with a puzzled frown. "But if it's a question of getting to town before Vil Holland beats you out of yer claim—you've got plenty of time—if you talk."

Hours later the girl forded the river and passed along the sandy street of the town. A short distance up the street, standing "tied to the ground" before the hitching post of a little false-front saloon, was Lightning. Patty noted as she passed that he showed signs of hard riding, and that the inevitable sag hung motionless from the saddle horn. Her lips stiffened, and her hand tightened on the bridle reins, as she forced her eyes to the front. Farther on she could see the little white-painted frame office of the register.

Opposite the register's office she pulled up, and gazed in fascination at the open door. Then deliberately she reined her horse to the sidewalk and dismounted.

The register shoved his black skull-cap a trifle back upon his shiny head, adjusted his thick eyeglasses, and smiled into the face of the girl. "Things must be looking up out in the hills," he hazarded. "You're the second one today and it ain't noon yet."

"I presume Mr. Holland has been here."

"Yes, Vil come in. I guess he's around somewhere. He—"

"Relinquished one claim and filed another."

"That's just what he done."

Patty nodded wearily. She was gamely trying to appear disinterested.

"Did you want to file?" asked the man, whirling a large book about and pushing it toward her. "Just enter your description there, an' fill out the application for a patent an' file your field notes, and that's it."

The girl's glance strayed listlessly over the adjoining page, her eyes mechanically taking in the words. Suddenly, she became intensely alert. She leaned over the book and reread with feverish interest the written description. The location was filed in Vil Holland's name—but, the description, was not of her claim!

"Where—where is this claim?" she gasped.

The old register turned the book and very deliberately proceeded to read the description. In her nervous excitement Patty felt that she must scream, and her fingers clutched the counter until the knuckles whitened. Finally the man looked up. "That must be somewhere over there. Too bad we won't be seeing him much more." He swung the book back, and as the import of his words dawned upon the girl she leaned weakly against the counter.

"Ain't you feeling well?" asked the old man, eyeing her with concern.

Without hearing him Patty picked up the pen, and as she wrote, her hand trembled so that she could scarcely form the letters. At last it was done, and the register once again swung the book and read the freshly penned words.

"Well, I'll be darned!" He exclaimed why he had finished. The blood had rushed back into the girl's face and she was regarding him with shining eyes. "What's the matter? Isn't it right? Because if it isn't you can show me how to do it and I'll fix it!"

"Oh, it's right—all right." He was eyeing her quizzically. "Only it's blamed funny. That there's the claim Vil Holland just relinquished."

"Just relinquished?" grasped the girl, reaching out and shaking the old man's sleeve in her excitement. "What do you mean? Tell me!"

"Mean just what I said—here's the entry."

"Vil—Holland—just—relinquished," she repeated in a dazed voice. "When did he file it?"

"I don't recollect—it was back in the winter, or spring." The man began to turn the pages slowly backward. "Here it is, March, the thirteenth."

"Why, that was before I came out here!"

"Why did he relinquish?" The words rushed eagerly from her lips, and she awaited breathless, for the answer.

"It wasn't no good, I guess, or he found a better one—that's most generally why they relinquish."

"No good! Found a better one!" From the chaos of conflicting ideas the girl's thoughts began to take definite form. "The stakes in the ground were his stakes. Her father had never staked—would never have staked until ready to file. Gradually it dawned upon her that—

"Shout knowing it was her father's! Vil Holland had staked and filed the claim. It was his. He did not know its value as her father had. He believed it to be worthless, but when he learned, only last night, back there in the cabin on Monte's creek, that it was really of enormous value—that it was the claim Rod Sinclair had staked his reputation on, the claim for which Rod Sinclair's daughter had sought all summer—when he learned this he had relinquished—that she might come into her own! Hot tears filled her eyes and caused the objects in the little room to blur and swim together in hopeless jumble. She knew now the meaning of his furious ride, and why he had changed horses at Thompson's. And this was the man she had doubted! Not once, but again and again, she had doubted him—she, who loved him. This was the man with whom she had quarreled because he had carried a jug. Suddenly she realized why he had turned away from her—there in the little cabin. She recalled the words that came slowly from his lips, as for a brief moment, he stood holding her hand. "There is nothing for you in the hills." With a sob she dashed from the office. As she blotted the tears from her eyes with a handkerchief she glanced down the street and her eyes fell upon Lightning, standing as he had stood a few minutes before. Only a moment she hesitated, and her spurs clicked rapidly as she hurried down the sidewalk. The door of the saloon stood open and she walked boldly in. Vil Holland stood at the bar shaking dice with the bartender. The latter looked up surprised, and Vil followed his glance to the figure of the girl who had paused just inside the doorway. She beckoned to him and he followed her out onto the sidewalk, and stood, Stetson in hand, regarding her gravely, unsmiling as was his wont.

"Vil—Vil Holland," she faltered, as a furious blush suffused her cheeks. "I've changed my mind."

"You mean—"

"I mean I will marry you—I wanted to say it—last night—only—only—her voice sounded husky, and far away."

"But, now it's too late. It was different—then. I didn't know you'd made your strike. I thought we were both poor—but, now you've struck it rich."

"Struck it rich!" flared the girl. "Who made it possible for me to strike it rich? Don't you suppose I know you relinquished the claim? Relinquished it so I could file it?"

"Old Grebbie talks too much," growled the man. "The claim wasn't any good to me. I never went far enough in to get samples like those of your dad's. I'd have relinquished it anyway, as soon as I'd located another."

"But, you knew it was rich when you did relinquish it."

"A man couldn't hardly do different, could he?"

"Oh, Vil," there were tears in the girl's eyes, and she did not try to conceal them. The words trembled on her lips. "A man couldn't—your kind of a man! But—there's so hard to find. Don't—don't rob me of mine—now that I've found him!"

In the little church after the hastily summoned witnesses had departed, the Rev. Len Christie stood holding a hand of each. "Never in my life have I performed a clerical office that gave me so much genuine happiness and satisfaction," he announced.

"Me, neither," assented Vil Holland, heartily, and then—"Hold on, Len. You're too blame young an' good looking for such tricks—an' besides, I've never kissed her, myself yet—"

"Where will it be now?" asked Holland, when they found themselves once more upon the street.

"Home—dear," whispered his wife. "You know we've got to get that cabin up before snow flies—" our cabin, Vil—with the porch that will cut over the snows of the changing light."

"If the whole town didn't have their heads out the window, watchin' as I'd kiss you right here," he answered, and strode off to lead her horse up beside his own.

Swinging her into the saddle, he was about to mount Lightning, when she leaned over and raised the brown leather jug on its thigh. "Why, it's empty!" she exclaimed. "So it is," agreed Holland, with mock concern.

"Really, Vil, I don't care—so much. If it don't hurt, I won't quarrel with it. I'll wait while you get it filled."

"Maybe I'd better," he said, and swinging it from the saddle horn, crossed the street and entered the general store. A few minutes later he returned and swung the jug into place.

"Why! Do they sell whisky at the store? I thought you got that at a saloon."

"Whisky!" The man looked up in surprise. "This jug never held any whisky! It's my vinegar jug. I don't drink."

Patty stared at him in amazement. "Do you mean to tell me you carry a jug of vinegar with you wherever you go?"

For the first time since she had known him she saw that his eyes were twinkling, and that his lips were very near a smile. "No, not exactly, but you see, that first time I met you I happened to be riding from town with this jug full of vinegar. I noticed the look you gave it, an' it tickled me most to death. So, after that, every time I figured I'd meet up with you I brought the jug along. I'd pour out the vinegar an' fill it up with water, an' sometimes I'd just pack it empty—then when I'd hit town, I'd get it filled again. I bet Johnson, over there, thinks I'm picklin' me a winter's supply of prickly pears. I must have bought close to half a barrel of vinegar this summer."

"Vil Holland! You carried that jug—went to all that trouble, just to—tease me?"

"That's about the size of it. An' gosh! How you hated that jug."

"It might have—I nearly did, make me hate you, too."

"Might have," an' "nearly," an' "it," are all words about alike—they all sort of fall short of amountin' to anything. It might have—but, somehow, things don't work out that way. The only thing that counts is, it didn't."

HER OWN CAREER

By PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

WEDDING PREPARATIONS

The next few days flew by. Fern, ed home. Aren't we funny, Gwen—and Gwenda worked untiringly on the wedding gown, and the studio was crowded from early morning to dizzy eve with friendly faces and myriad packages. Great was the shopping that went on, and many were the trays of hats and slippers, once so hated by Fern, and now so conscientiously attended to by her.

"If another person puts a pin in me for the next few days, I certainly will scream," she exclaimed one afternoon, after a particularly trying siege of shopping and tramping. "Heavens! I never dreamed that a wedding entailed so much beastly fussing, did you, Gwenny?"

"Deed I know," answered Gwenda with a smile. "Why, my child, I was raised in a community where a wedding was an event. The social functions of the seasons were weddings. And if you think that what we are doing is 'fussing,' Lord, what would you think of some of the doings that go on in my town before a wedding?"

"This dress is most beautiful," said Fern, holding off the bridal gown at arm's length, the better to admire its sheer loveliness. "Just think, Gwenny, Petya told me that he and Natalie were married right on the stage. Yep, after one of her performances, with the entire company present as witnesses. And that Natalie was in her ballet costume. He has never ceased to regret it and says that it just drives him wild with delight to think of seeing me in a really truly wedding dress, and everything that goes with it. So that proves to me conclusively that at heart even artists are conventional."

"You look so exquisite in white, my dear, it is the artist in Petya that longs to see you in the setting most becoming to your vivid beauty as much as the desire for the conventional, I think."

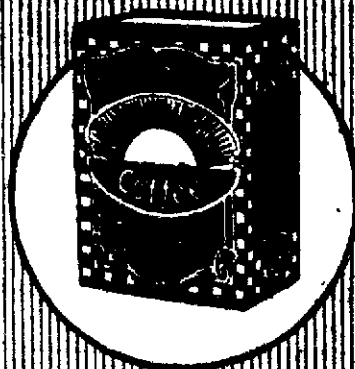

"Oh, but Petya is really quite conventional in many ways that you don't know about," said Fern, shaking her head, positively. "He likes a real home and babies and wants me to be a wife to him, not try to have any sort of a definite career outside my home, and there you are. And yet we used to think him a philanderer, a lover of all ladies, and a man who preferred artistic disorder to a well appointed—"

"And your sailing only two weeks off," sighed Fern. "What ever shall I do without you, darling, when you are gone? Even Petya don't take your place, you know. Don't stay over there forever, will you, Gwenda? Some day we may want you to be godmother to a little Fern or Petya," she broke off with a charming blush.

Gwenda jumped up and kissed her cousin and murmured tender words in her ear. "You really love Petya, that I do know, and so I am perfectly happy, Fern."

Prettier Teeth Next Week

If you will now start this delightful test

This is to offer you a way to whiter teeth, cleaner, safer teeth. Such glistening teeth as millions now enjoy.

Your dealer will give you the means. Get it and watch the effects. See your teeth grow prettier—note how clean they feel.

Dentists everywhere advise this method. Millions of homes have adopted it. Try it this week, for your own sake. Learn what it means to you.

To remove the film

Your teeth are coated with a dingy film. It is viscous—you can feel it with your tongue. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. It clouds the teeth and causes most tooth troubles.

The ordinary tooth paste does not effectively combat it, so the tooth brush has left much of it intact. As a result, teeth lose their luster. And, despite all brushing, tooth troubles have been constantly increasing.

The film is what discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Many other serious troubles are also traced to them.

Science combats it

Dental science has long sought ways to combat that film. The ways have now been found. Able authorities have amply proved them. Leading dentists everywhere advise their daily use.

The methods are embodied in a new-day tooth paste—Pepsodent. It combats the film wherever it may linger. In this way it brings surprising results which one quickly sees. Over 5,000 new people daily are trying out this modern method.

Fights acids too

Pepsodent brings three other effects which authorities now desire. It multiplies the salivary flow—Nature's great tooth-protecting agent. It multiplies the starch-resistant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise form acid.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is Nature's neutralizer for the acids which cause decay. Pepsin is also included.

Quick changes come

The user of Pepsodent quickly feels certain spicuous changes. One cannot doubt the benefits it brings.

Perhaps men who smoke see the most conspicuous effects. Their films are tobacco-stained.

Women see them in prettier teeth, for most film-coats are dingy.

But Pepsodent is most important to the children. Their teeth seem most subject to these film and starch attacks. Dentists advise that children use Pepsodent from the time the first tooth appears.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch the other good effects, and read the reasons in the book we send.

This ten-day test will be a revelation. It may bring to your home a new era in teeth cleaning. And the benefits to you and yours may be life-long in extent. Cut out the coupon now. Present it at your store.

The local state militia will police the grounds, and a corps of riders on Indian scouts will patrol the track. State wide interest is being created in the races, and riders from all parts of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Pennsylvania will be here for the events.

State motorcycle officials will rule the races and judge each event.

NEW YORK YANKS GET RAZZED FOR MAKING POOR SHOW

(By HENRY L. FARRELL)
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—The Yanks are beginning to get razzed on the Polo Grounds.

Miller Huggins has perhaps the biggest combination of talent in the major leagues, but it lacks that class essential for a championship club.

Yesterday's game gives a good illustration of that thing known as class. The Yanks proceeded to get four runs in the first three innings against Washington, but they blew a lead that would win for any real ball club and dropped the game.

On the other hand, Cleveland let the Detroit Tigers get off to a four-run lead, but Speaker used 23 players and finally won the game.

Speaker does not underestimate his opposition and believes that a game is a game. The Yanks go along apparently thinking that there is plenty of time yet to get started.

Monday afternoon the Yanks were invisible for seven innings. Carl Nays didn't allow a hit in that time. Then the whole works blew and Washington won the game.

PLAYERS ARE DESERTING JUSTICE

CHICAGO.—Distrust Attorney George Gorman went to bat today to prevent the alleged gamblers and former Chicago White Sox ball players indicted for conspiracy to throw the 1919 world series from slipping out of the country to escape trial.

According to Gorman, Sport Sullivan, Abe Atoll, and Rachael Brown are now in Canada. Bill Burns, whose statements caused the sweeping investigation of baseball, is said to be in Mexico.

Ray Johnson is reported headed for Washington to ask the federal government to prevent others from escaping.

Eight have given bonds.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

YESTERDAY'S HERO.—Sam Rice, The fleet-footed Washington outfielder knocked a homer, leading the Yanks 5 to 1. The Bambino failed to get one, but Schang did.

Dick Kerr rose to the clouds in the third inning and forced in the two runs that gave the Browns a 3 to 1 victory over the Sox.

Batting as a pinch hitter in the fifth inning, Leveque knocked in three runs with a triple, but the Cubs lost in the eighth 10 to 6.

Perkins singled in the ninth, with the bases full and the Athletics beat the Red Sox 2 to 1.

The Speaker had to use 23 players, but the Indians overcame a six-run lead and beat the Tigers 9 to 8. Cuba Laguarda led the Cubs and the Reds won 3 to 2.

George Burns made his annual error by dropping a fly that enabled Brooklyn to beat the Giants 3 to 1.

GOOD WORK

Manager Speaker used 23 players in the game Tuesday, but needed them to win from Detroit, 9 to 8. He called upon six pitchers, two catchers, six outfielders, three first basemen, two pinch hitters and one pinch runner. The only Indians to play through the entire game being Speaker, Sewell, Stephenson and Gardner. Prior to the game between the American League pennant, Cleveland's first in a series of professional baseballs, was lined with appropriate ceremonies.

BUSINESS WORLD DRAWS MOST
College Graduates Turn to Trade
Instead of Professions

2 TO 1 SHOWN BY REPORT
Drift is Pointed Out by Well Known School

(BY B. C. FORBES)
NEW YORK.—(Special).—A well-known college announces that twice as many of its graduates will enter business as will enter law, medicine, the ministry and other professions. Isn't this most encouraging from the business point of view?

When business was conducted on a very small scale, the need for the highly educated, well trained, brilliant minds, was not so pressing, as the problems then were very much fewer and smaller. There were no large labor armies to be led by one employer. International finance, international commerce, international politics had not to be reckoned with. Each concern lived and moved and had its being within a small compass.

Today business offers a field for education, for brains, for statesmanship of the highest order. Is it easier, would you say to conduct a law business, fill a pulpit, practice medicine or run a business organization employing anywhere from a few thousand to 250,000 workers? There is room for the exercising of the highest talents in conducting these mammoth enterprises as the United States Steel Corporation, the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., Swift and Co., the Pennsylvania and New York Central and Union Pacific and Baltimore and Ohio and other railroads, the National City Bank and the Continental Commercial Bank and the Bankers Trust Co., all other huge financial institutions, the Eastman Kodak Company, the Remington and Underwood and Royal and other typewriting companies, the National Cash Register Company, the Burroughs and Dalton and Monroe and other adding and calculating machine companies, the American International Corporation and V. R. Grace and Company and the International Mercantile and Harbinger and other shipping and exporting enterprises, the General Electric and Westinghouse and Western Electric and other large companies in the electrical field, the General Motors and Ford and Willys-Overland and Packard and other well-known automobile companies, the Standard Oil and Donohoe and Doherty and Sinclair and Texas Company and other vast oil enterprises, the United States and Goodyear and Ajax and Goodrich and other rubber companies, the Asarco and Utah Copper and a whole host of other mining companies, the American Sugar Refining and Warner and Federal and National Sugar Companies, Endicott-Johnson and Regal and Douglas and other colossal shoe companies, the International Harvester Co., American Tobacco and Liggett and Myers and other tobacco companies, our principal coal companies, Sears-Roebuck and Montgomery-Ward and other mail order houses doing a nation-wide business, Woolworth and McCrory and the Great Atlantic and Pacific and United Cigar and other huge chain store enterprises, the United Fruit Company and so forth.

Has business in the past been well run in America?

Yes and no.

The mechanical end of American business, the machinery, the invention, the transportation, the market, in short, the whole MATERIAL part of it has been conducted with a genius unsurpassed by any other nation in any direction, and it has equipped the rest of the world in this sense, therefore, American business has been quite extraordinarily well run.

But what of the human end of it? Have not the great majority of American business men been so engrossed in making things and in making money that they have neglected the making of men? Have they not overlooked the fundamental fact that man does not exist for business, but business exists for man, that the purpose of business is to turn out the right kind of citizen?

It is when we take this broadest view of business that the value of education to our ranks the finest products of our colleges and universities becomes clear. After all, it is not so much the knowledge that we are justified in looking for under and better and deeper thinking than from minds but poorly trained. We are entitled to expect a statesmanship from young men, not to become leaders than from those not so trained. The right kind of education also tends to give men an accurate and objective tendency to respect the relative value of the material and the human and spiritual.

Our colleges and universities teach history. Graduates emerge with a knowledge of the causes leading to revolutions. The unskilled workmen who rises from the bottom is often disposed to be a harsh taskmaster, given to driving them leading those under him. It is vision and his philosophy are ill-fitted to the narrow. The properly educated man has a background informed by the events and the course of human history.

Therefore, he is or should be, able to grasp the larger significance of social and economic trends and to give to the necessity for acting fairly and magnanimously.

MUTT AND JEFF—TOUGH LUCK, MUTT LOSES HIS WAY TO FRANCE

—By Bud Fisher

SHORT SHAVINGS

Jim Jones returning home late one night was hit over the head by a tramp, then relieved of his watch and chain and all his money. As he got up the tramp gave him back one of his own bills.

"Here's for you, bo," he said. "My pal's down the road, and if he meets you and you ain't got any money he might hurt you."

An English temperance enthusiast was giving a lecture on his pet subject, and, when well warmed up to his theme, someone asked him how he could account for the miracle of the turning of the water into wine.

His answer was given in all seriousness. It was as follows:

"That," replied the lecturer, "was the one act performed by the Founder of the Christian religion which He ever after regretted."

"I believe in calling a spade a spade."

"I believe it is the best policy myself. I once tried to pass one off for a club. That's how I got these two fingers shot off."
